A Message from the Executive Director

Spring has finally arrived — and if ever there was a season we truly earned, it is this one.

This past winter tested us all. Here in Rhode Island, we faced one of the more demanding seasons in recent memory, including a February blizzard that reminded us just how fierce New England winters can be. For the residents, families, and staff of Steere House, navigating those long, cold months required patience, resilience, and the kind of dedication that defines everything we do here. I am so proud of our entire community for the grace with which we faced each challenge.

And yet — here we are. The snow has melted, the days are growing longer, and there is something undeniably hopeful in the air. Spring has a way of doing that. It reminds us that renewal is always possible, and that there is much to look forward to.

Which brings me to some wonderful news. This June, we will gather for our annual fundraising event, Seaside Soiree, a celebration of the community and the mission that bind us together. This year's event will hold special meaning, as we present the Steere House Legacy Award to a truly deserving recipient — Jeff Hanna, our long-time investment manager and a steadfast partner in our work. As a non-profit, we depend not only on the compassion of caregivers, but on the financial stewardship of people like Jeff, whose expertise and commitment have helped keep our mission strong year after year. We look forward to honoring him in the way he so richly deserves.

Thank you, as always, for your continued support of Steere House. I hope to see you this June.

Ways to Give Series

Remembrance and Tribute Gifts

These gifts thoughtfully express your love and respect for someone special or are a wonderful way to say thank you for the care a loved one has received at Steere House.

Remembrance gifts offer bereaved families the opportunity to invite others to make a contribution. You may also want to pay tribute to someone special by making a contribution in their honor. These gifts are a popular way to recognize staff members for the special care they've given to your loved one.

Whichever way you decide to make your gift, it will certainly touch those remembered.
